Lucky Dip

Attractive and friendly country pub with magnificent downs views, smallish beamed and brick-floored bar with roaring woodburner, enjoyable food, well kept Dark Star, Harveys and an interesting guest beer, enthusiastic young licensees and quick service even when busy, good family dining area (book well ahead in summer) with nice prints; piped music; big lawn and terrace, lots of good walks

You may be too late for the massive curly haddocks that they used to serve, but the portions are still perfectly adequate and just as delicious. With the exquisite Dark Star (almost) always on tap and a setting to match, there is little to fault this secluded gem. With hand cream in the gents, even the Long Man is happy after a day flat out on the hillside.
