

UK

Two weeks ago, Andrew Turvil, editor of the Which? Pub Guide, selected six great pubs with a view. We asked you to choose your favourites

Local heroes

South east

The Sussex Ox, Sussex Chosen by Susan Hellenburgh

Guarded by the Long Man of Wilmington, here is refreshment and comfort in the folds of the South Downs. Well kept ales revive walkers' throats as tired eyes sweep the heady, romantic vista of the Sussex Weald.

▶▶▶ Milton Street, Alfriston (01323 870840, thesussexox.co.uk).

The Cutty Sark, London

Chosen by Paul Bowden

Between Ballast Quay and Greenwich Pier along the Naval College river pathway. The pub is an 1805 Grade II listed building with good food, good ales and a fantastic view from the first-floor bay window.

▶▶▶ 5 Ballast Quay, London (020-8858 3146).

out over the common, the old windmill and half of southern England. Brill common is seriously wild, the grassed-over former clay pits forming a very un-English landscape.

▶▶▶ Windmill Street, Brill, Buckinghamshire (01844 237104; thepheasant.co.uk).

South west

The Pilchard Inn, Devon

Chosen by Martin Weidon

Take in a panoramic view of the South Hams at this 13th-century inn. Cut off by the tide twice a day, when only the sea tractor can get you back. The Pilchard is part of the wonderful, but pricey, Burgh Island art-deco hotel next door.

▶▶▶ Burgh Island, Bigbury-on-Sea (01548 810514, burghisland.com). DB&B at the hotel from £260.

Warren House,